The Fulbright Program

Established 1946 to expand and strengthen the relationships between the people of the United States and citizens of the rest of the world

Sponsored by U.S. Department of State’s Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs and administered by the Institute of International Education’s Council for International Exchange of Scholars (CIES)
Scholar-In-Residence Program

- Brings scholars and professionals from abroad to campuses that do not often host visiting scholars.

- Involves colleges and universities that serve student populations underrepresented in international exchange programs.

- S-I-R grantees:
  - Primarily teach undergraduates.
  - Provide cross-cultural/international perspective.

- Application is made by the interested U.S. institution.
  - 1 semester or full academic year options.

- Deadline is November 1; Email: sir@iie.org
Program Benefits: Increased Mutual Understanding and Globalization

- Host institution gains new knowledge, new courses and new energy from scholar
- Scholar’s collaborative relationship with host institution and colleagues in-country results in continued dialogue and exchange
- Experience impacts scholar’s field, career, home institution and home community

Outcomes and Impact:
- Internationalizing campus and curriculum
- Education Abroad program
- Virtual Exchange/online courses
- MOU initiatives
- Etc.

D. Community Outreach

Public Education: In 2018, the U.S. Department of Education awarded $13 million for partnerships for New Orleans universities to impact K-12 education in the city. Xavier University was one of the higher education institutions to be selected as a recipient. Xavier’s department of Education recently launched its Doctorate in Educational Leadership to transform the quality of public education in the city and to better equip principals and school administrators. Mr. Shannon is an expert in educational models in public school education. Through the Division of Education and Counseling’s existing partnerships with K-12 schools, Mr. Shannon will collaborate with faculty and graduate students in these programs on existing public educational initiatives.

Consortia University Education: The XUTULAC partnership is a collaboration between Xavier University and Tulane University on Latin American and Caribbean area studies initiatives. The S-I-R can be used as an expert as part of this effort. Additionally, students all New Orleans universities can take courses at Xavier and vice versa because of a consortia agreement in place after Hurricane Katrina. Both Loyola University (private) and the University of New Orleans (public) have programs in Latin American studies. Dillard University, another HBCU in New Orleans also partners with Xavier on a number of initiatives. Through the consortia, interested students at other universities can enroll in the course the S-I-R will teach but also attend all the university and community programming that will feature the proposed S-I-R.

City Activities: Xavier University is one of the founding members of the Mayors New Orleans-Haiti Historic Task Force. The task force can benefit from hearing from the S-I-R from ways in which both communities can mutually work together in areas of mutual interest, using the expertise and resources of institutions like Xavier in that effort.

Community Groups: Nola4Haiti is a committee of professionals with ties to Haiti either through heritage, charitable work, or professional work with Haiti. The committee includes representatives at universities, in the private sectors, in the media and in the non-profit sector. The committee engages in both charitable and cultural exchange to bring both New Orleans and Haiti together in solidarity, particularly in post-disaster recovery context.
The S-I-R’s visit will:

• Solidify the AADS core course: AADS 3070: Latin American and the Caribbean. Now that the Afro-Latin American and Caribbean studies program has launched, this course can then be cross-listed for both programs.
• Identify projects, institutions and resources for the creation of a Center for Afro-Latin America and the Caribbean.
• Create and encourage Xavier-led study abroad programs in the region, that are taught and facilitated by Xavier faculty, practical and affordable for Xavier students, and can increase Xavier student’s exposure to the region and use of foreign languages, and enhances Xavier students marketability upon graduation because of their international exposure to the region. At the end of the S-I-R’s stay, the university should have a memorandum of agreement with a Haitian institution for both faculty and student educational exchanges.
• Support and synergize faculty projects and research taking place in the region by connecting faculty together in support of the university’s developing emphasis in the region.
• Expand the applicability of Xavier’s Confucius Institute to include Chinese populations in the region and current Chinese government supported initiatives in Latin America and the Caribbean.
• Strengthen Xavier’s relations with private, public and community sector groups doing work with Haiti, positioning Xavier within the community as an academic designate for work in Haiti.
• Elevate Xavier’s position within the academic community about instruction, research and initiatives in Haiti and the Caribbean, particularly with communities of African descent in the region.
Outcomes
Hi love,

I had my graduating seniors take a survey and one student said this:

Dr. Gross is always looking for inspiration. List another course and/or professor that you had at Xavier that you really enjoyed. Please also describe why.

AADS-3020 (Latin America & the Caribbean) with Dr. Roberts has been a class at Xavier that I have found interesting and actually enjoyed. It is a very laid back class. Dr. Roberts takes the time to actually get to know the names of all students in class. It is easy to engage in class because it is small. I get to learn about the history of these countries but also the effects of colonization and history in present time. She does not just lecture, but we get to watch related videos and movies about the concepts. We had a guest professor from Haiti who have us first hand insight of what it is like in a Caribbean nation.
